MACRO INTELLIGENCE — AI-GENERATED BRIEFING
10Y yield collapsed 6.5bp to 4.49% while 3M held at 3.58%, steepening the 3M-10Y curve to ~91bp — a clear bull-steepener signaling rising market conviction in Fed cuts ahead without recessionary front-end repricing; duration-sensitive growth assets are the primary beneficiary. - Technology is the unambiguous leader (+3.02% 1D, +15.74% 1M), driven by the duration tailwind from falling long rates compounding with AI capex momentum — Tech is now lapping the entire complex by ~12pts over 1M, indicating concentrated institutional rotation rather than broad risk-on. - Energy (-1.40% 1D, -3.17% 5D) and Staples (-1.06% 1D, -2.33% 5D) under pressure — Energy reflects softening cyclical demand expectations embedded in the rate rally, while Staples bleed signals defensives are being funded to buy Tech/Industrials, not a defensive rotation. - OPPORTUNITY: Falling real yields + contained VIX (16.9) + Gold breaking higher ($415) suggest easing financial conditions with a weaker-dollar undertone — bullish setup for AI hyperscaler capex narratives and semis with international revenue exposure; RISK: Tech's +15.74% 1M move is extended and VIX ticking up (+0.31) hints at hedging demand into the rally. - POSITIONING: Stay overweight AI/Tech and lean into long-duration software and semis, but begin funding hedges via cheap VIX calls or trimming the most extended mega-cap winners; pair-trade by underweighting Energy and Staples rather than chasing cyclical broadly until the curve steepening is confirmed by Industrials follow-through.

TEM: BMS Partnership Deepens, ArteraAI Launch Validates Platform

WHAT'S CHANGED

- TEM +3.31% to $47.71 on light volume (1.79M vs 4M+ recent avg), capping a 4-day +4.8% advance off the $45.53 base; stock now sits at 10% of 52-wk range, suggesting basing rather than breakout.
- Two material catalysts in 72 hours: (1) ArteraAI Prostate Test launch — first externally-developed digital pathology algorithm on TEM's platform, validating third-party content strategy; (2) expanded BMS strategic partnership deepens pharma-AI drug development revenue stream.

IMPLICATIONS

No implications to report.

VALUATION

See key data table.

KEY RISKS

- Persistent cash burn (~$200M+ annually) raises dilution risk if capital markets tighten.
- Reimbursement headwinds on oncology testing (Medicare LCD revisions) could compress Genomics gross margin.
- Concentration risk: top-5 pharma partners likely >40% of Data & Services revenue; BMS, AstraZeneca renewals are make-or-break.

SECTOR INTELLIGENCE

HOT SECTORS: Technology (+3.02%/+6.59%), Industrials (+1.67%)

COLD SECTORS: Consumer Discretionary (-0.12%), Real Estate (+0.37%)

ROTATION WATCH: Tech leadership re-asserting on AI capex narrative; healthcare-AI hybrids like TEM should benefit from spillover as generalist funds seek non-mega-cap AI exposure with secular tailwinds.

BYPRODUCT PLAY: Imviva's CTA313 lupus data (5/14) underscores rising pharma demand for AI-curated trial cohorts — directly accretive to TEM's clinical trial matching and real-world data services.

OUTPERFORMERS & PEER CONTEXT

- RXRX (Recursion Pharmaceuticals): AI-drug discovery peer outpacing on pharma deal flow; trades at premium EV/Revenue vs TEM despite smaller revenue base.
- VEEV (Veeva Systems): Healthcare data/cloud platform compounding at 20%+ with GAAP profitability — the maturity model TEM aspires to.

TEM CONTEXT: TEM is basing at 10% of 52-wk range while Tech sector ETF is +6.59% over 5 days — clear relative underperformance vs sector, but the 4-day recovery off $45.53 with positive catalysts suggests sentiment inflection. Pulling away from clinical-stage AI peers, lagging profitable health-tech platforms.

------	-----------------	-----------------------------	------------------------------------	-----------------------

RGTI: Quantum Rally Extends on $2B Federal Funding; Trim Strength

WHAT'S CHANGED

- RGTI ripped +54% in two sessions (5/21 $22.04 on 148M shares, 5/22 $26.42 on 203M shares) on confirmation of $2B Trump administration quantum funding initiative and a reported $100M government-backing tranche; today consolidating -7.25% at $24.50 on 42M shares.
- Quantinuum's filed $1.05B IPO (Bloomberg, 5/26) introduces a credible, better-capitalized public competitor and a near-term valuation anchor for the quantum cohort.

IMPLICATIONS

The federal funding catalyst materially de-risks RGTI's near-term cash runway and validates superconducting qubit architecture as a national-security priority, but the $8.1B market cap on sub-$20M TTM revenue (~400x+ EV/Revenue) prices in dominant share of a market that does not yet commercially exist. Quantinuum's IPO will force side-by-side comparison on gate fidelity, logical qubit count, and commercial bookings — areas where Honeywell-backed trapped-ion technology currently leads. We view the move as sentiment- and liquidity-driven rather than fundamentals-driven.

VALUATION

At $24.50, RGTI trades at ~250x FY2027E revenue and remains pre-EBITDA with widening operating losses; conventional DCF or EV/EBITDA frameworks are not meaningful. Our $28 base PT applies a peer-relative EV/Revenue multiple anchored to QBTS/IONQ post-Quantinuum-IPO comp set, implying ~14% upside but acknowledging the stock is now a momentum vehicle where technical flows dominate fundamental anchors. Multiple compression risk is acute if Quantinuum prices at a discounted revenue multiple.

KEY RISKS

- Quantinuum IPO pricing sets a lower comp multiple, dragging the entire quantum cohort lower on relative-value rotation.
- Equity raise highly probable into strength — RGTI has a documented pattern of ATM issuance following price spikes, diluting recent buyers.
- Technology risk: superconducting qubit roadmap (Ankaa, Lyra) milestone slippage versus trapped-ion and neutral-atom competitors.

SECTOR INTELLIGENCE

HOT SECTORS: Technology (+3.02%/+6.59%), Industrials (+1.67%/+2.28%)

COLD SECTORS: Consumer Discretionary (-0.12%), Utilities (relative laggard +0.37%)

ROTATION WATCH: Federal industrial-policy spending (quantum, AI, semis) is driving concentrated flows into pre-revenue tech; expect rotation pressure if Treasury yields back up or if Quantinuum IPO absorbs sector liquidity.

BYPRODUCT PLAY: Cryogenic supply chain (Bluefors-exposed names), specialty semiconductor fabricators serving qubit chip production, and helium-3 suppliers benefit irrespective of which quantum modality wins.

OUTPERFORMERS & PEER CONTEXT

- IBM (IBM): Diversified quantum-as-a-service revenue already in P&L; Heron processor roadmap funded organically without dilution risk.
- QBTS (D-Wave Quantum): Annealing-based commercial traction with real bookings; sector beta play with tighter revenue-multiple discipline.

RGTI CONTEXT: RGTI has outperformed peers on the 5-day window (+53% vs IONQ/QBTS in the +20-30% range), suggesting RGTI is being treated as the highest-beta, lowest-float quantum proxy. This is a momentum-driven decoupling, not a fundamentals-led re-rating — historically reverses within 2-4 weeks.

BBAI: Panama Win Offsets Restatement Overhang; Reiterate Neutral

WHAT'S CHANGED

- Stock rallied ~9% over 5 sessions ($3.84→$4.20) on Panama cargo security deployment win, with volume peaking at 65.4M shares on 5/22 — a clear momentum/news-driven move on an international expansion data point.
- Simply Wall St (5/20) flagged active lawsuit and prior restatement concerns, reintroducing governance/reporting risk into the narrative just as backlog optimism (Zacks 5/25) was building.

IMPLICATIONS

The Panama deal validates BBAI's pivot from pure defense-IC exposure toward dual-use border/trade security — a higher-growth, internationally addressable TAM that could re-rate the backlog story if conversion accelerates. However, the restatement/litigation overhang materially constrains multiple expansion until clean financials and a fresh 10-Q reset confidence. Net-net, the thesis remains binary: catalyst-rich but capital structure (warrants, convertibles, dilution) keeps per-share economics fragile.

VALUATION

At $2.01B market cap on ~$185M FY26E revenue, BBAI trades at ~10.9x EV/Sales — a premium to defense IT peers (Leidos/SAIC at 1-2x) and roughly half PLTR's ~25x, reflecting growth optionality discounted by execution risk. Our $4.50 base PT assumes ~9x FY27E sales on $230M revenue; bull case ($8) requires backlog-to-revenue conversion >40% and clean audit, bear ($2.50) on dilution or contract slippage. Multiple compression is the dominant risk vector given negative FCF and ongoing share issuance.

KEY RISKS

- Securities litigation and prior restatement history create headline/disclosure risk and potential settlement liability.
- Continued cash burn (negative EBITDA) likely necessitates additional equity issuance, diluting holders at depressed prices.
- Customer concentration in US DoD/DHS exposes revenue to budget continuing-resolution risk and contract re-competes.

SECTOR INTELLIGENCE

HOT SECTORS: Technology (+6.59% 5D), Industrials (+2.28% 5D)

COLD SECTORS: Consumer Discretionary, Real Estate

ROTATION WATCH: Tech leadership combined with industrials strength favors defense-AI hybrids; capital is rotating toward names with government revenue visibility plus AI narrative leverage.

BYPRODUCT PLAY: Border/trade security spending tailwinds benefit adjacent names in biometrics (CLBT), autonomous surveillance (KTOS, AVAV), and edge-AI compute (AMBA) — BBAI sits at the software layer of this stack.

OUTPERFORMERS & PEER CONTEXT

- PLTR (Palantir): Commercial AIP traction driving consensus revenue revisions higher; trades at premium multiple BBAI bulls aspire to.
- KTOS (Kratos Defense): Unmanned systems backlog growth outpacing primes, demonstrating investor appetite for small-cap defense-AI exposure.

BBAI CONTEXT: BBAI is lagging — at 19% of 52-week range vs Tech sector +6.59% 5D, the stock is underperforming the rotation despite favorable news flow, suggesting overhead supply from restatement-period holders and skepticism on conversion.

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

NEE: Morgan Stanley Trims PT But Maintains Bullish View; Reiterate Buy

WHAT'S CHANGED

- Morgan Stanley maintained bullish stance on NEE despite a price target reduction (per Insider Monkey, 5/26) — signals near-term modeling adjustments but unchanged structural thesis.
- Motley Fool floated NEE/Dominion combination narrative (5/25) which could reshape sector M&A discourse; Trump nuclear EO (5/25) is a tangential positive for utilities with nuclear capacity exposure.

IMPLICATIONS

The PT trim against a maintained Buy is incrementally negative for momentum but reaffirms NEE's regulated FPL franchise and the largest renewables development backlog in North America as structural advantages. The nuclear EO is a marginal tailwind given NEE's Seabrook/Point Beach exposure and rising data-center power demand thesis. Sector rotation into utilities (+3.6% 5D) on AI/data-center power scarcity continues to validate the long thesis.

VALUATION

At $87.70, NEE trades ~23.4x FY26E EPS and ~14x EV/EBITDA — a ~15% premium to regulated utility peers, justified by the renewables growth optionality. Base PT of $102 implies ~16% upside via 25x FY27E EPS of ~$4.10, anchored on 6-8% EPS CAGR guidance reaffirmation. Multiple expansion driver: data-center PPA wins and clarity on IRA tax-credit durability post-2026 policy noise.

KEY RISKS

- Interest rate sensitivity — long-duration cash flows vulnerable to a steeper Treasury curve.
- IRA/renewables tax credit policy risk under current administration creates backlog economics uncertainty.
- Florida regulatory risk at FPL (next rate case) and hurricane-season cost recovery overhangs.

SECTOR INTELLIGENCE

HOT SECTORS: Technology (+6.59% 5D), Utilities (+3.60% 5D)

COLD SECTORS: Consumer Discretionary, Real Estate

ROTATION WATCH: AI-driven power demand is creating a rare Tech+Utilities co-rally; expect continued bid for regulated utilities with renewables/nuclear exposure as data-center capex inflects.

BYPRODUCT PLAY: Power-grid equipment (GEV, ETN), independent power producers (VST, CEG), and uranium/nuclear fuel names benefit alongside NEE as the electrification capex cycle broadens.

OUTPERFORMERS & PEER CONTEXT

- CEG (Constellation Energy): Leading nuclear pure-play has materially outpaced XLU YTD on Microsoft/Three Mile Island PPA template.
- VST (Vistra): Despite recent 3-month underperformance flagged by Zacks, multi-year run on data-center thesis remains intact.

NEE CONTEXT: NEE at 65% of 52-week range is lagging IPP peers (CEG, VST) that have captured the speculative AI-power premium, but NEE offers the superior risk-adjusted profile via regulated cash flows — relative underperformance is an entry opportunity, not a thesis break.
