TEM: BMS Partnership, ArteraAI Launch Reinforce Platform Thesis; Reiterate Buy

WHAT'S CHANGED

- TEM launched ArteraAI Prostate Test (5/24), the first externally developed digital pathology algorithm on its platform — validates third-party AI app-store strategy and broadens AD-segment TAM beyond proprietary assays.
- Announced strategic partnership with Bristol Myers Squibb (5/23) for AI-enabled drug development, extending Data & Services pipeline; stock recovered +5.9% over the 5-session window to $46.18 but remains at only 7% of 52-week range.

IMPLICATIONS

No implications to report.

VALUATION

See key data table.

KEY RISKS

- Reimbursement pressure on xT/xF/xR oncology panels and slower MoIDx coverage expansion could compress Genomics gross margin.
- Continued GAAP losses and SBC dilution (~$80M/qtr run-rate) prolong path to FCF positive; equity raise risk if cash burn re-accelerates.
- Pharma R&D budget cycle risk to Data segment; high concentration in top-5 customers (~50% of Data revenue).
